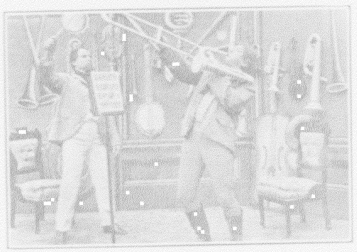
THE PERSISTENT TROMBONIST.

LENGTH, 450 FEET.

COPYRIGHTED 1908.

Mr. Noodleheimer takes music lessons. He plays the trombone and is so enamored with his new art that he never stops playing. Neither his enraged neighbors nor the police nor anything else can make Mr. Noodleheimer stop.



Seeing no relief the desperate citizens throw him into the sea. When last seen he just sunk for the third time still blowing the trombone and from the reports received he continues his musical feat down below.

No. 107.

THE DANCING FIEND.

LENGTH, 390 FEET.

COPYRIGHTED 1908.

A young man anxious to learn dancing calls on the Professor. Being too stupid the Professor sells him a book from which to learn dancing. The dancing fiend now tries the terpsichorean art all the time and everywhere, until he ends at Dr. Daffy's Sanitarium where he is still dancing.

No. 108.

S. LUBIN

MANUFACTURER OF

Life Motion Picture Machines, Films, Slides and Stereopticons.

Lubin Building, 926-928 Market St., Phila., Pa.